MANUS DUGGAN, HERO UNDERGROUND BATTLE, MISSING

GERMANS FAIL RALLY AFTER DRIVE AT YPRES

(By Associated Press.) Another day has passed without the demoralized Germans along the Ypres front making an effort to regain the ground they lost in the titanic drive of Field Marshal Haig's forces last Thursday, south of Ypres, however, the Teutons heavily bombarded the British position. Aerial activity between the British and German flyers continued Sunday. Nine enemy machines were accounted for by the British, who themselves lost three.

There has been no fighting along that part of the line where the Germans are facing the French.

On the Chemin des Dames, the Germans early Sunday morning penetrated a small salient west of Cerny, but almost immediately were driven out with the loss of men made prisoners.

TWENTY-SEVEN RESCUED SUNDAY; TEN MORE FOUND ALIVE TODAY; BULKHEADED ON 2200 LEVEL

(By Associated Press.) BUTTE, Mont., June 11.—2 p. m. Shift Boss J. D. Moore, one of those found alive, died as he was taken from the hoisting cage. Another is reported to have died below after he was rescued.

(By Associated Press.) BUTTE, June 11.—Ten more miners were found alive today on the 2200 level of the Speculator mine. Helmet men have been communicating with them. Using cement sacks and mine water, they bulkheaded themselves so thoroughly that tools had to be used to break a way through their tomb. These men are reported in good condition. Food and helmets are being sent to bring them to the surface. Sixty-three bodies have been recovered, and it is expected the list will reach 135.

If Manus Duggan, the young hero of the disaster, who saved 27 by barricading, returns from the tomb of the dead to the living, he will find he has become a father since the accident. The baby was born while Duggan was in the mine struggling for life.

Twenty-eight men entombed in the Speculator mine since Friday night's disaster, were brought to the surface alive Sunday afternoon. One was so far gone, however, that resuscitation was impossible. The finding of the men alive stimulated efforts of the rescue teams and hope was expressed that others might be found alive.

The news that men had been found alive on the 2400 level of the Speculator shaft spread rapidly and the gates of the mine were crowded with anxious relatives before the rescue men had been registered at the time keeper's office.

Nyerja Johnson was the first man to reach the surface.

"We owe our lives to Manus Duggan," Johnson told the crowd at the time-keeper's office. "He was the one who directed the work. None of us would be here if it had not been for him."

A drink of brandy was urged upon Johnson, who at first refused it because of company rules, but finally took it at the suggestion of a physician.

"Duggan told us all to go into the drift," Johnson said.

"After we got into the drift, we got a piece of canvas. Then we took off our clothes and with both choked out the gas. He directed the work and when some men got weak he did the work of ten men. I hope they save Duggan."

J. H. McAdams, who was brought to the surface with Johnson and the others, died within an hour.

JANE ADDAMS GETS COLD DEAL

PACIFIST ORATOR OPENLY REBUKED BY JUSTICE OF ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT

(By Associated Press.) CHICAGO, June 11.—Profound silence followed an address by Miss Jane Addams on "Pacifism and Patriotism in Time of War," before the current events class of the First Congregational Church at Evanston. Finally Orrin N. Carter, chief justice of the state supreme court, and a member of the class, jumped to his feet.

"I have been a life long friend of Miss Addams," Carter said. "I have agreed with her on most questions in the past."

"That sounds as if you were going to break with me," interrupted Miss Addams, laughing.

"I am going to break," the justice retorted. "I think any thing that may tend to cast doubt on the justice of our cause in the present war is very unfortunate. No pacifist measures in my opinion, should be taken until the war is over."

"I am not sure that such a paper as I have just read is altogether advisable in a time like the present," Miss Addams said, "but if there is any question of that sort, it should be referred to the committee that invited me here to speak."

"I am sure we are all of us very glad to have Miss Addams here to speak on this subject," interrupted Katherine Waugh McCulloch, chairman of the committee, which had invited Miss Addams to speak, and the chairman of the meeting, "and we want to thank her for coming."

Someone moved to adjourn and several seconded the motion, ending the incident and the meeting.

FOURTH OF JULY CREATES HARMONY

TWO GREAT CAMPS UNITE IN CELEBRATING THE DAY OF INDEPENDENCE

Goldfield and Tonopah for the first time in history, will celebrate the Fourth of July in Tonopah on the fourth and fifth. Both camps have united with the idea of having one great patriotic demonstration that will go down in history as the accompaniment of the first year of the European war. The matter was settled last night by a committee from Goldfield consisting of J. J. McGee and A. H. Pett, who motored over with a conference with the Tonopah committee.

Goldfield will come in a body by special train and a brass band on the morning of the fourth and stir up the boys of Tonopah with some of their well known pep.

In return for this concession Tonopah will assist liberally in staging a big boxing event in Goldfield on the evening of the third and a large delegation of fight fans will motor over to enjoy the event.

In Tonopah the exercises will open with patriotic exercises conducted in the Airdome on the morning of the fourth. At the conclusion the street program will be started with a jack-hammer drilling contest on Main street. Compressed air will be piped from the Jim Butler and every hard rock miner will have a chance to show the stuff he is made of. The finals will be pulled off the following morning at the same place. Entries will be limited to the miners of Nye, Mineral and Esmeralda counties.

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR

In the Liberty Loan statement issued from Washington that appears on Page 3, the column titles are transposed and the word "Allotment" should be where "Subscription" appears.

BUSINESS MEN MUST PUT UP

CITIZENS LIBERTY LOAN COMMITTEE WILL MAKE FINAL DRIVE TOMORROW

The Tonopah executive committee of the Citizens Liberty Loan is going to call on the business men tomorrow morning so the latter might as well be ready with their fountain pens and checkbooks to subscribe to the fund that Uncle Sam needs to help make war in the name of liberty and everlasting freedom. The West End Consolidated Mining company notified the Tonopah Banking Corporation that it would take $50,000 through the Tonopah committee and an effort will be made through the attorneys representing the Jim Butler and West End to secure a portion of the funds arising from the apex litigation. Both companies are agreeable to the suggestion and the matter will probably be arranged.

The subscription must close on Wednesday evening as a report must be mailed the federal reserve banks for classification. The leading mining companies have also agreed to carry their regular employees in five monthly payments. The Pacific coast division is behind in the total assigned to this territory and citizens are urged to do their best to redeem the reputation of the west for liberality and patriotism.

ALLEGED SLAYERS OF BABY KEET ESCAPE FURY OF MISSOURI MOB

(By Associated Press.) SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 11.—Where thousands followed the white casket of Lloyd Keet, more arrests are expected to clear the mystery of Clotus Adams and Claude Piersol, two of the six alleged abduction plotters held in jail in Kansas City where they were rushed for safe keeping after being taken from the sheriff and subjected to the "third degree" by leaders of the posse. Failing to obtain a confession the men were returned to the sheriff unharmed.

Letters sent Mr. Keet after the abduction were published today. They were written apparently by a woman who attempted to disguise her identity by misspelling. The first letter read: "We got your kid. Don't pay any attention to police or put in paper. We want $2000 a piece. There are three of us. We got another one picked out, so if we don't get this from you we can tell them to see what we did to yours. We are going to feed him and be good to him until you bring the money where we said, but if you don't get this you will have a dead kid." Instructions were included.

The six alleged abduction plotters were kept safe somewhere in the Ozark Hills north of here Sunday morning.

Their guard overpowered by a mob of Springfield citizens at Stockton early Sunday and their lives threatened, they won freedom from harm for themselves by denying stoutly that they were guilty of the disappearance and death of little Lloyd Keet, the wealthy banker's son. As a result, Springfield was quiet last night, its streets almost deserted and the talk of further violence hushed after the wild fury of Saturday night and Sunday morning in which thousands of persons crowded the public square awaiting stolidly the expected return and lynching of the suspected six.

Sheriff Will Webb was thought to have four of his prisoners, including Mrs. Taylor Adams, the woman member of the alleged band, in jail at Stockton, 45 miles to the north. The two other prisoners, C. J. Piersol and Taylor Adams, the woman's husband, were believed to be on the road northward, under guard possibly of the sheriff himself, toward a railroad line that would provide transportation to Jefferson City and the Missouri state penitentiary.

Out of the meagre news that has come back to Springfield it has been possible to learn only the bare outlines of what transpired when the sheriff was overtaken by the mob. It is reported Piersol, despite a rope around his neck, refused to admit that any of the suspects were concerned in the death of little Lloyd. Sheriff Webb and his deputies had been overcome by the mob and the six told Webb they might expect death regardless of whether or not they confessed. Piersol pleaded for his life, maintaining his innocence and the sheriff made a stirring appeal against violence. Then the mob subsided, but only after, according to one representative, having hung up one of the prisoners until "he
